This book views Samsung Electronics in terms of corporate life cycle as well as product portfolio and strategy. It also examines the issues Samsung faces as it proceeds further into the 21st century. Written from the perspective of an experienced commentator on Korean and global business, this book presents not simply a narrative or an adulatory and uncritical account of Samsung's rise, but a considered analysis of the secrets of success that both business students and CEOs will want to read and consider applying to their own companies.

A Fire That Wouldn't Go Out follows the author on a musical journey that ebbs and flows through a torrent of emotions, much like music itself does. It is a poignant yet whimsical love letter to music accompanied by a virtual treasure trove of experiences and memorabilia. A child receives a pair of drum sticks as a gift, which ignites in him a ravenous curiosity and deep-seated yearning to find music that speaks his language, music that speaks to his very soul. And that spark that started him on his quest for musical discovery turns into a wildfire when he dusts off a cache of vinyl 45s and puts the needle to the wax for his very first listen of countless classic melodies. Hearing these songs for the very first time sets him adrift upon a musical ocean that cascades into a lifetime of rock n'roll. Follow the author as he grows through childhood and the awkward music of the 1980s to a musical awakening and personal revolution in the 1990s that propels him on a never-ending road trip of record stores, night clubs, and stadiums, all to be a part of any one of the tiny pieces of music history that may happen in any given place, at any given time. Be there with him when he finds what he sought all along – Inspiration. There is no point A, point B, or any particular destination. As you join this road trip, you are accompanied not only by the author but also by the music that continually defines his journey. You'll find the road to be a fast-paced motorway replete with a comical yet pragmatic look at the music industry and music psychology. This adventure put down on paper will forevermore be your go-to guide for how to circumnavigate the musical world in which we live. Along the way, you, too, will discover how music has molded who you are, just as it did the author, and perhaps you will find something you have been seeking as well. But most importantly, you will discover that anyone's musical experiences, be it yours or the author's or that kid with the green Mohawk, combat boots, and enough facial piercings to never be able to walk quietly through a metal detector, all of our musical experiences overlap and intermingle to form one collective story, one collaborative ensemble performing the song of life, one collective fire— a fire that will never go out.

This book explores the complex interplay of culture and economics in the context of Philippine cinema. It delves into the tension, interaction, and shifting movements between mainstream and independent filmmaking, examines the film distribution and exhibition systems, and investigates how existing business practices affect the sustainability of the independent sector. This book addresses the lack or absence of Asian representation in film distribution literature by supplying the much-needed Asian context and case study. It also advances the discourse of film distribution economy by expounding on the formal and semi-formal film distribution practices in a developing Asian country like the Philippines, where the thriving piracy culture is considered as ‘normal,’ and which is commonly depicted and discussed in existing literature. As such, this will be the first book that looks into the specifics of the Philippine film distribution and exhibition system and provides a historical grounding of its practices.

Chapter Eleven Developing countries Human resource development whether need to be improved Do developing countries need to help human resource development to assist their businesses development, it is possible due to staff individual lacks knowledge to do whose job in whose organization? What is the developing and developed countries' organizational human resource strategic difference, e.g. award strategies? I shall indicate one developing country, such as South Africa's businesses' general organizational human resource strategy case to explain whether what causes their human resource strategies, e.g. award management strategies are different to compare developed countries, such as US, UK as well as I also indicate what weak points that they ought to concern in order to improve these developing countries' businesses productivities and efficiency, if South Africa's firms hope to raise staff performance to be better. In general, South Africa employers feel human resource development strategy is needed to innovate and attempt to ensure that they meet the needs of their economy. So, South Africa employers are considering whether how they ought need to improve their human resource strategies in their organizations in order to raise productive efficiencies and performance to their employees effectively. In fact, because South Africa country lacks effective human resource development to recommend to itself country's businessmen how to select the right employees to do right positions, how to evaluate whom has more effort to be promoted to do senior position, lacking fair reward and welfare to compensate to their employees. So, it brings many reasons to explain why in South Africa society unemployment and poverty still existence. Not all of the reasons have to do with the capabilities of people, may have to do with the unequal distribution of productive assets in South Africa society. Nowadays, the South Africa employers only feel South Africa workers are only their own labour to use or sell. Hence, they won't like to provide reasonable and fair award to compensate for their Africa employees general lack high education level and skills. So, it also influences their award will not increase. Moreover, there are South Africans who have skilled labours to sell and they can not find buyers because there are not enough jobs, their skills do not match the demands, and there is a systematic process for information to flow between government, the workplace and labour. Hence, many South African people are unemployed, due to their knowledge are not enough to satisfy or accept to employers' demands. It will cause South African income inequality will be continue serious. The salary range between the high education level and low education level of labours' difference is large. A cycle of income inequality, low skills and poor education have limited economic growth.
